

10 GREAT EMPLOYEE PERKS THAT WILL MAKE YOU JEALOUS

BY CAMERON ALBERT-DEITCH, SOPHIE DOWNES, INC.
MAY, 2021

Supporting your employees today means offering benefits that you'd be hard-pressed to find at any company just 10 years ago. What's more, many policies that used to be considered generous a decade ago are now mere table stakes. Inc.'s first-ever Best Benefits Awards recognize the businesses that are going beyond the call of duty to put their employees first. Here are 12 standout benefits from the companies on Inc.'s 2021 Best Workplaces list.

CHILD CARE: Furlane

Financial technology consulting firm Furlane stepped up to support working parents during the pandemic. All employees who have been with the company for at least 90 days can receive up to $1,000 per week to cover child care or tutoring for as long as they need it.

ELDERLY CARE: Hyperscience

Document-processing company Hyperscience looks after its staff by helping them look after their families. The company offers a monthly child care and education stipend of $3,000 per child, up to $6,000, and in 2020 began reimbursing elder care up to $72,000 per year for employees' dependents.

SABBATICAL: TripleLift

When employees at advertising startup TripleLift hit their five-year work anniversary, the company helps them celebrate with a $5,000 stipend and a one-month paid sabbatical. That's a lot better than a cursory shout-out during an all-staff Zoom meeting.

MENTAL HEALTH: Unity

Video game development platform Unity offers all employees--including part-timers--professional mental health care if they need it. The company's employee assistance program offers free counseling via phone, video call, text message, and web chat.

UNMEETING: Cricket Health

Cricket Health is far from the only company in America to take aim at the scourge of excessive meetings this year; there's no one on earth who is not, by now, completely sick of Zoom. Still, the company--launched in 2015 to help address chronic kidney disease--reports that its new No-Meetings Wednesdays have significantly helped employees refocus. Also, we totally co-sign taking aim at Wednesdays. Wednesdays are the worst.

10 GREAT EMPLOYEE PERKS THAT WILL MAKE YOU JEALOUS

PROTEST PAY: Grow Enrollments

Educational consulting firm Grow Enrollments offers employees a week's worth of paid-leave credits specifically for participation in peaceful protests. The company cites its "firm, unquestionable stance against discrimination or prejudice."

PET CARE: Ridgeline

You've heard of paternity leave, but what about pawternity leave? Ridgeline, a startup that makes investment-management software, takes pet-friendly culture to the next level by granting employees two days of paid time off when they adopt a furry friend.

UNPLUGGING: AchieveIt

When Covid hit, software firm AchieveIt instituted Summer Fridays. Then, Summer Fridays begat Fall Fridays, until Fall Fridays became Perpetual Fridays: Now employees get every other Friday off, year-round--and, according to a company survey, mental health is up and burnout is down. That's the kind of mission creep we can get behind.

HIGHER EDUCATION: pMD

When health care software company pMD boasts about its high-flying culture, it means that literally. Any full-time employee can take flight lessons on the company's dime--even during work hours. This perk is as old as the company, whose CEO is a licensed pilot.

EMERGENCY FUND: esrp

Commercial real estate agency esrp's employee emergency fund provides its workers with a financial lifeline for a range of life events, including funerals, medical emergencies, and welcoming new grandchildren. The omnipresent resource is funded through anonymous employee donations.

SOURCE: <https://edition.cnn.com/2021/05/10/tech/facebook-instagram-for-kids-attorneys-general/index.html>

1. How have work benefits changed in the past 10 years?
2. In your opinion, which are the best benefits mentioned in the text?
3. What benefits does your company currently offer?

10 GREAT EMPLOYEE PERKS THAT WILL MAKE YOU JEALOUS

MORE ON VIDEO

SOURCE: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IbdzdoRh2Q>

1. What benefits does Netflix offer employees?
2. What is the logic behind this benefit? What is the parallel he made to "dress-how-you-want"?
3. Why does the paradigm "good management is close management" does not apply to the creative business?

